ANNOTATION:

Enriching the worldview of our youth today in strengthening their stable ideological immunity against various alien and harmful ideas and destructive ideas, devotion to the Fatherland, a sense of involvement in its development, formation of national pride, their development in the spirit of national and universal values, modern intellectual and spiritual competition In this article, we have tried to highlight that educating highly qualified professionals who are able to make independent decisions is one of the important tasks facing the system of continuous education in the era of global change. Therefore, we can say that a healthy family environment is an important institutional basis for the inculcation of good ideas, national and universal values in the minds, hearts and inner world of the growing generation.

Key words: national idea, global, democracy, terrorism, radicalism, ideological immunity, universal values, humanism (humanism), differentiation, ideological zombie, religious belief.

INTRODUCTION

The twentieth century was a period of sharp and complex ideological conflicts in the world. It is no secret that the end of the bipolar world at the end of the twentieth century has radically changed the ideological landscape of the world as a result of the relative imbalance. While in the first decade of the XXI century, humanity has achieved great results in the political, economic, scientific and cultural spheres, unfortunately, there are still serious threats to global peace and stability. Despite thousands of years of experience in human development, the dark forces that are trying to ignite the flames of war and use it for their own interests are still actively working in various parts of the planet to achieve their nefarious intentions.

"Achieving political goals by inculcating different religious beliefs in the minds, hearts and inner worlds of people, especially young people, is becoming a form of ideological aggression." In this regard, we believe that the views of Doctor of Sociology, Professor M.Bekmurodov in the article "The mechanism of ideological zombies" have an important pedagogical significance. "Achieving political goals through the inculcation of different religious beliefs in the public consciousness has become one of the hallmarks of the late twentieth and early twenty-first centuries," he wrote. - Today, ideological pressure on the masses is clearly reflected in the activities of sects, sects and movements that are separated from the traditional religions of Islam, Christianity, Buddhism and Judaism. The process of influencing through religious beliefs ends with changing people's minds, worldviews and, ultimately, turning them into spiritual zombies. One of the most pressing issues facing society today is to study the mechanism of poisoning the minds of young people and making them zombies, how this process works, what forms and methods are used by foreign ideological forces to achieve their goals [1].

It is no coincidence that in the process of globalization in the modern world, the terms "world government", "world citizen" are emerging. This is reflected in the desire to build a socially, economically, politically and culturally unique civilization in the world based on Western standards. It is known that this can have a devastating impact not only on the development of countries that have achieved national independence, but also on the development of countries around the world.

"The development of a democratic society is based on different ideas," he said. At the same time, it is vital that it become the only ideology that unites it on the path to a common goal. The national idea as an ideology of society is an important point that unites different views, goals and interests, providing common goals and aspirations, dreams and hopes of different peoples, peoples, nations in the context of diversity of ideas and ideologies. Such a view of the democratic development of society is of particular importance in today's multipolar world. Because in the world there is a struggle between different alien and harmful ideas and ideologies "[2]. As the first President I.A.Karimov said: "The current alarming events in different parts of the world, including the growing threats in our region and around us, bloody conflicts, political and economic conflicts, terrorism, radicalism, how the growing threat of drug trafficking poses a serious threat to peace and stability"[3]. Indeed, when we analyze what is happening around us today, we can see that the fight against ignorance with enlightenment is the most sensible principle. Especially in education and upbringing, young people who set an example for others with their curiosity, initiative, activism, knowledge, show ideological immunity against the effects of harmful threats. From this point of view, one of the important requirements of the time is to strengthen the passion for enlightenment among young people, to further strengthen cooperation between families, communities and educational institutions in the field of education support. Indeed, the integration of the structural elements that make up the institutional system of combating ideological threats is important. The specification of the functional directions of each structural element, the organization and management of pedagogical and didactic activity on the basis of the principle of differential approach to the object creates a solid foundation for achieving the intended goals.

MATERIALS AND METHODS

However, under the influence of economic, political, spiritual and cultural processes in the world, various alien and harmful ideas of global information and a number of serious negative consequences are also manifested. In this regard, researcher N.Umarova writes: Along with the positive aspects of the informatization process, there is a risk of misuse of the achievements in the field of information. At the same time, the information is used in violation of the goals of peace and security in the world, adherence to the principles of sovereign equality of states, peaceful settlement of conflicts, non-use of force, non-interference in internal affairs, respect for human rights and freedoms.

The fight against harmful ideological influences in the era of global change requires the purposeful promotion of the creative essence of the national idea among our people, especially among our youth. However, the development and application of effective methods and tools to combat the ideological threats to the peace of our country, the stability of our society, against our universal, national and religious values, the understanding of national identity, the centuries old way of life of our people is lagging behind. Consequently, with a sense of national pride that empowers us for our past and future, we must nurture new generations and strengthen our national statehood. In this process, life experience proves that the issue of further improving the infrastructure and technology of transmission of national and universal values to the younger generation is an important factor in overcoming harmful and alien ideas, ideological threats.

In fact, national traditions and customs that save humanity from decline are the pinnacle of humanity. As a result of the denial of our values, national and spiritual qualities, which are passed down from generation to generation, some young people later become indifferent to our laws [6]. Therefore, it can be said that the prospects of relying on the national idea to further strengthen the attitude of our youth to the national spiritual heritage and values, customs and traditions require:

- It is expedient to further increase the commitment of young people to universal values. In particular, it aims to further enhance the principles of mutual respect and social justice, freedom and liberty, stability and prosperity, goodness and progress, peace and the fight against evil, environmental cleanliness and nature conservation, as well as interfaith tolerance suitable.

- In order to rely on national spirituality, in the future, first of all, a person must realize his identity. After all, this is the result of a strong need to realize our national identity. Universal values are always nurtured by national values, and also serve the formation and development of national spirituality. These are the common factors that unite all mankind in relying on the national idea. Only then will we be able to bring up a spiritually mature person, a generation of healthy thinking in the future. One of the priorities of our society is to bring up a harmoniously developed generation. After all, only spiritually mature people can create a great future.

First of all, it is necessary to set comprehensive, well-thought-out, clear goals and priorities that meet the various spiritual, moral, socio-cultural, information technology and economic and social threats that can occur, enable to predict the rise and crisis of the world economy. One of the priorities of state policy in our country is to pay great attention to the development program and the training of mature and harmoniously developed youth, which is the main force in its implementation [8].

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

“Undoubtedly, the role of the education system in educating a spiritually mature person is invaluable. Because the education system directly affects the development of society, determines the future direction of social development, educates a harmoniously developed generation of the nation. In today’s world, the potential and intellectual power of young people is crucial. The upbringing of a spiritually mature, intellectually gifted generation is one of the most important tasks not only in Uzbekistan, but all over the world. That is why a spiritually mature generation will determine the future of the country.”

Consequently, not paying enough attention to education, not aligning its activities with social interests, treating it as a secondary factor has a negative impact on the development of society, and can even lead to its decline. "General education, a single educational system, is one of the pillars of a democratic society, a basic social institution, which acts as an important tool that determines, unites and moves the scientific, spiritual, ideological, moral foundations of development" [9]. In this regard, the formation of an independent worldview, high spirituality of young people is an important condition for strengthening their stable ideological immunity against destructive ideas, educational institutions and a healthy family environment is an important institutional basis for inculcating good ideas, national and universal values in the minds and hearts of the younger generation. . In order to form ideological immunity, in turn, it is necessary to cultivate in the young harmoniously developed generation, first of all, patriotism and healthy national pride, independent and free thinking, delicate taste, taste and high morality [10]. It is also necessary to inculcate in the minds, hearts and inner world of the younger generation such universal principles as patriotism, the ideas of humanism, populism and progress.

In today's world, solving youth problems is a guarantee of development and security of the country, creating all the necessary conditions in the process of educating young people to solve important tasks of national development, have modern knowledge and skills, able to compete with their peers in the world. educating young people is a requirement of the time [11]. Today's time demands that we fully arm our young people, who are the decisive force for the security of our country today and tomorrow, and protect them from the influence of various alien and harmful ideas [12]. If we say that this concept should be armed, not armed, then we have created conditions for the assimilation of what seems to be "shining" in the eyes of those who have left them alone. [13] Enlightenment is the only way to get rid of the influence of our pure-hearted youth, who have secretly learned of their pure intentions and are gradually turning their noble ideas into alien ideas, which are attractive only on the surface but originally useless.[14] So, we must not forget that young people must always adhere to the "struggle against thought, against thought, against ignorance, against enlightenment." The strength of trust and belief in young people is manifested through respect for national and universal values, cultural heritage, customs, traditions, language, history, faith and devotion to it. Only then will it protect the nation from some of the threats associated with the process of globalization.

CONCLUSION

- Summarizing the above, we can say that:
- In order to respond with a counter-opinion, each young person must have his own independent opinion;
- Young people need to differentiate between idea and idea. Confidence and belief in the national idea must be high;
- requires a high level of enlightenment and spirituality to fight against today's alien and harmful ideas.
