INTRODUCTION

Armed with the legal knowledge and skills given on the basis of the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan, it is a high confidence that the foundation of our restored civil society will be firmly established. In the "national program of Personnel Training" the relevant tasks on legal education and training in all pre - school educational institutions of the Republic, secondary general, secondary special and higher educational institutions and labor communities were defined. In accordance with this task, it was noted that each student should be able to master national and universal values, have a broad outlook and independent thinking, study his rights and duties in the educational process. In his speech at the solemn ceremony dedicated to the 24th anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan, President Shavkat Mirziyoyev said: "in the years of independent development, our Constitution serves as a solid foundation for the construction of an economy based on the rule of legal democratic state, a strong civil society, free market relations and

The formation of non-profit organizations and political parties, which are part of civil society, created wide opportunities for their free activity, strengthened the basic principles and rules of the electoral system.

In full compliance with the requirements of the Universal Declaration of human rights and other basic international instruments, the General Assembly of the United Nations has guaranteed individual rights and freedoms, political, economic and social rights of Man and citizen. He created the necessary conditions for the spiritual perfection of Man and the harmonious development of all aspects. Along with economic, social, political, historical, national-traditional, religious and philosophical-ideological factors that influence the legal culture of a person, his upbringing in an objective way, his consciousness and conduct are also formed in the means of educational work aimed at a specific goal. During the years of independence, the government of our Republic developed a number of decisions, orders and programs on raising the legal culture of members of society.

The role and importance of the Constitution of the Republic of Uzbekistan in society, the study of its content and essence, the continuity of the upbringing and development of the legal consciousness, thinking and culture of the younger generation is one of the most urgent tasks of today. The role of general secondary education primary education in the implementation of these tasks is incomparably great. It is not surprising that the expressions of our great thinkers say that "knowledge obtained in youth is like a pattern carved into a stone." The school is the most favorable age period for the formation of legal education of primary schoolchildren. The initial legal understanding, skills and skills given to children should be studied as a pedagogical problem waiting for its solution within the framework of the upbringing of a legal and moral culture. At present, in our Republic, these professions have not been sufficiently studied. The study of the activities of general secondary schools, social and legal organizations engaged in youth, work experience in the Republic shows that the organization of legal education and training has not sufficiently mastered the requirements specified in the content of legal and educational documents. Also, to date, the development of scientific and pedagogical bases for the formation of the legal culture of students of general secondary schools in the fields of pedagogy and jurisprudence, general Secondary Education has become a requirement of the period. The above views, in turn, indicate the continuation of the initial sources of legal education, the improvement of its basis, the development of the legal foundations of human rights, norms of decency, in turn, the basis of the scientific-theoretical and philosophical basis of the legal foundations of Parental, Child, Family Education and the legal foundations of its co - sister, Army, neighborhood, society, state cooperation, provides. These sources support children as an important source in the implementation of legal education in the family, preschool institutions and primary classes from a young age. At the same time, it allows to create the theoretical and scientific pedagogical basis of legal education.

Organization of work within the framework of the educational program and standards in the educational process in the schools of our Republic in these days, which is considered as an urgent issue of today, is the main task of every teacher on the implementation of legal education of students in secondary schools.

Reading for a primary school student is an actual kind of activity. The integrity of the individual, taking into account the integrity of the pedagogical process, but taking into account the fact that the formation of the attributes of legal education in a socially useful activity, except for education, class and school, has its own characteristics, the manifestation of the qualities of legal education from these types of activities is directly determined by the criteria At the same time, it is one of the main tasks of primary school teachers to ensure that parents are also provided with a certain system of knowledge from Phoc materials and to cooperate with them in pedagogy, to achieve the uniqueness of requirements.
